6. Eligibility Assessment of Children for Intercountry Adoption

It is the policy of the State to ensure that every child remains under the care and custody of his/her biological parents and is provided with love, care, understanding, and security toward the full development of his/her personality. When care of the biological parents is unavailable or inappropriate, and no suitable alternative parental care or adoption within the child's extended family is available, adoption by an unrelated person shall be considered. However, no direct placement of a child to a non-relative shall be countenanced.

Adoption is the most complete means by which permanent family life can be restored to a child deprived of his/her biological family. The child's best welfare and interest shall be the paramount consideration in all questions relating to his/her care and custody.

Upon the effectivity of RA No. 11642, or the "Domestic Administrative Adoption and Alternative Child Care Act," on January 28, 2022, jurisdiction over domestic adoption cases shall now be with the National Authority for Child Care (NACC), a quasi-judicial agency attached to the Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD). There shall also be a Regional Alternative Child Care Office (RACCO) for each region of the country, headed by a Regional Alternative Child Care (RACC) officer. This act sanctioned simpler, less expensive domestic adoption proceedings and streamlined services for alternative child care.
